

Please work to ensure the survival of our vital local radio stations. The best, most creative, cultural programming comes out of independent stations. Personally, I listen to two college radio stations almost exclusively, one an NPR jazz station and the other an eclectic station. I find that commercial radio dominated by conglomerates does not meet my needs, and is simply mass-market and generic, has no creative component, and does not meet community needs.

Sincerely,

--Jamey Frank